Shaping the Future of Aerospace

"I want to thank AIAA for their steadfast commitment to our community, to shape the future of aerospace from convening forums, to giving us a publishing outfit, to promoting mentoring and networking, and other interactions that benefit us in so many ways. AIAA is such an important part of our profession, blending the right mix of academia, government and industry representatives, AIAA is the bedrock that our community is built on."

– Richard Wahls, Strategic Technical Advisor, Advanced Air Vehicles Program, NASA Aeronautics Research Mission Directorate, NASA Langley Research Center

PARTICIPATION IS POWER

Networking and knowledge enhancement rank highly among reasons why professionals belong to AIAA. That's why we strive to provide you with numerous opportunities to share information, engage with thought leadership, and participate in the aerospace professional community.

AIAA ENGAGEMENT AND LEADERSHIP OPPORTUNITIES INCLUDE:

- 70+ Technical Committees — Focused on specific areas of aerospace-related technology and research.
- 58 Sections across the U.S. and in Australia — Each section offers technical programs and networking activities tailored to local aerospace professionals, students and educators.
- 21 Standing Committees — Help AIAA achieve its mission by providing guidance on the industry.
- 19 Committees on Standards — Oversee the development of new standards, update current standards, and set the direction for AIAA's standardization work moving forward.
- 11 Program Committees — Focus on leading-edge and emerging aerospace programs.
- 5 Annual Forums — These annual programs offer a high-level look at the industry, as well as a vast variety of niche technical presentations. The forums are designed specifically to foster networking and information exchange. Find out more at www.aiaa.org/forums.

“What I like about being a member of AIAA is it gives me an opportunity to balance my career. With AIAA, I can remain technical with my interactions with other systems engineers and have opportunities to network that I may not always day-to-day at my organization”.

– Sophia Bright, Director of Information Technology, Boeing

WHO WE ARE

The American Institute of Aeronautics and Astronautics (AIAA) is the world's largest society dedicated to the global aerospace profession. We believe that aeronautic and astronautic professionals are the drivers of global innovation. Together we make the world a safer, more connected, accessible, and prosperous place. Continuing this progress depends on the exchange of ideas – and AIAA provides the forum where innovators can come together and grow the ideas that will one day change the world. We invite you to join us.

AIAA MISSION

To inspire and advance the future of aerospace for the benefit of humanity.

AIAA VISION

To be the voice of the aerospace profession through innovation, technical excellence and global leadership.

"Thank you to AIAA whose conferences, publications, and committees helped me to remain current and keep up with technology. Really, if AIAA did not exist and didn't make it possible for us to keep up with technology, we would not be where we are today, and I hope all of us recognize that."

– Ben Zinn, AIAA Honorary Fellow, 2014 Reed Aeronautics Award Winner, and chair and regents' professor, School of Aerospace Engineering, Georgia Institute of Technology
